DRAINAGE OF CHICAGO.

DISCUSSION OF THE QUESTION BEFORE A HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Gale Opposed the Cook County Delegation's Opportunity to Offer the Ordinances as to the Plans Proposed—Opponents of the Measure Outspoken—Opposite Opinion Among Local Delegates to Great Sanitary Convention in Chicago—The Revenue Law.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Special.]—The first meeting of the Committee on Municipal and Sanitary Corporations under the Democratic lodge of the Chicago drainage question, Joseph Gale] was the first speaker. The nature of the bills as far considered was explained. He said it must first be determined that Chicago and its surrounding towns were in the most pressing need of a better system of drainage. Twenty years ago the canal had been deepened enough to allow the water to flow from the lake to the Illinois river. The cost to the city was $3,000,000, and the future of the canal was assured. Eight feet of water was nearly forty miles. In addition to that there had been an expenditure of $1,000,000 in the work which, assumed to a depth of half the improvement. The full to the canal had been fixed at only one and one-half feet to the mile, and the current was so slow that it only discharged about half the water that was needed. At present, to gain a current and fall, the city was pouring the sewage over a dam, but that did not save the area. The fall was placed at that time at the low figure for the reason that only grass was the only use to use on the canal. This error has prevented a ready saving of water. The two propositions now were alternatives. They did not call for any money or tax on the district property. They simply wanted an opportunity to do the work. The first scheme proposed to establish a municipality, and issue bonds, or make general or special assessments, as at them. The scheme contemplated also the turning over of all the city and suburban sewerage. The other plan was simply to fix a channel to carry off the water and sewage. Both contemplated a relief to take the water away from the lowlands and prevent an overflow here. The people there would be liable to any expense. The provisions for assessing and collecting damages were immaterial, as the law now stands. The first bill contemplated a connection to the ground water to provide for a drainage to the canal by the construction of a channel. The other plan was to provide for a drainage to the canal by the construction of a channel. The property benefited would be taxed to pay for the work. It would have been well to have had a general drainage law, but the Legislature had failed to pass it. The question was a matter of life and property. Both plans were exhaustive. The second one was simply to fix a channel to carry off the water and sewage. Both contemplated a relief to take the water away from the lowlands and prevent an overflow here. The people there would be liable to any expense. The provisions for assessing and collecting damages were immaterial, as the law now stands. The first bill contemplated a connection to the ground water to provide for a drainage to the canal by the construction of a channel. The other plan

President Cleveland Inclines to Vote Senate Resolution Down—Two Reports in the House on the Pension Deficiency—The Senate Passes Bill to Increase the Naval Establishment—Other Congressional Work—National Capital Short Talks.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16.—(Special.)—The President has given no intimation as to whom he would appoint to succeed Mr. Manning as Secretary of the Treasury. In the absence of any definite information, there have been various rumors of changes in the entire Cabinet, with Lyman Judson Gage, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, as the successor of Mr. Foster as Secretary of the Treasury. In the absence of any definite information, and it is thought, should no such change be made, Assistant Secretary Spaulding will succeed Mr. Manning. Mr. Spaulding has been in the Treasury Department for many years, and is a thoroughly competent man for the position. Mr. Gage is a resident of Chicago, and is a personal friend of Mr. Cleveland. He is a banker, and is said to be worth $1,000,000. He is a Democrat, and has been prominently mentioned for the Treasury portfolio. Mr. Gage is a man of fine appearance, and would be a credit to the Administration. He is a man of affairs, and has been successful in business. He is a native of Illinois, and has been a resident of Chicago for many years. He is a man of fine address, and would be a popular member of the Cabinet. He MILWAUKEE DOES—Milwaukee society is agog over a letter in which another of the social organizations of the city has been made to look like a lunatic asylum. During preparations of almost the entire Light Guard, to be fire a rifling display, the ladies connected with that company resolved to celebrate the occasion by a ball. Invitations were issued, and everything was in readiness for the event, when the ladies received a letter from the Colonel of the regiment, informing them that the Light Guard would not be allowed to parade with loaded guns, and that, consequently, the ball must be postponed. The ladies were indignant at the action of the Colonel, and declared that they would not attend the ball if it was postponed. The Colonel, however, refused to change the date, and then resigned his position as Colonel of the regiment. The ladies were then informed that the ball would be held as originally intended, and that the Colonel would not be present. The ball was held on the evening set for it, and was a very brilliant affair. The Colonel, however, was not present, and the ladies were highly indignant at the manner in which they had been treated by him. The affair has created a great deal of excitement in social circles, and the Colonel is severely criticised for his action in the matter.

THE LINCOLN LETTERS—Mrs. A. L. Tarpey has delivered a lecture at the conference in Wyandotte last night on a series of letters written by Abraham Lincoln to Mrs. Tarpey's father, during the period of the war. Mr. Tarpey was a personal friend of Lincoln, and the letters are highly interesting. Mrs. Tarpey has been offered $1,000 for the letters, but refuses to sell them.

CHARGES TO THE GRAND JURY.—The proposition of the Michigan Central Railroad people to build their line over a steam bridge across the Detroit River at Detroit will receive the unqualified approbation of the townsmen as soon as the proper preliminaries can be brought matters to a shape where it can be fought matters by the Legislature. One of a number of objections which townsmen, entertaining the above opinion, have to the proposition is that the bridge will be a menace to navigation, and that it will be a difficult matter for the steamers and sailing vessels to pass through the draw. The bridge will require at least two years to complete. The draw will require at least two years.

A RAILROAD CASE.—Sheriff D. D. Shattuck, of Ionia, has notified Superintendent Phelps of the G. R. & I. to Commence that he has purchased the old St. Louis branch road, that he will operate it shortly and will transfer the same to Ionia as a new building. The property is worth $100,000.

CHARGES OF FRAUDS AND BRIBES.—David Wesley, counsel of Daisy S. Ross, represents that suit was taken at Lafayette, against the Ross children to foreclose the mortgage for $10,000 on the north half quarter of Section 10, Township 23, Range 4 west, in Tippecanoe County, Indiana, which property belongs to the Ross children, and which was purchased by Mrs. Ross with money received from the estate of her husband. Mrs. Ross, being unable to pay the mortgage and with creditors pressing her, sold the property to Wesley, making a deed of the property to him, and Wesley then executed a mortgage back to Mrs. Ross for the purchase money. Wesley has failed to pay the mortgage, and Mrs. Ross has instituted suit to foreclose the mortgage. Wesley has filed a cross-complaint, charging that the deed from Mrs. Ross to him was obtained by fraud and bribery, and that he was induced to purchase the property by false representations as to its value. Wesley has also filed a petition in bankruptcy, and Mrs. Ross has filed a petition to have the bankrupt proceedings dismissed, on the ground that Wesley's petition was filed for the purpose of defeating the foreclosure proceedings. The matter will be heard in the Circuit Court at Lafayette, and Wesley has employed Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks and Hon. Daniel Voorhees to defend his case. Mrs. Ross has employed Hon. Benjamin Harrison and Hon. Thomas H. Nelson to prosecute the suit. Wesley is a resident of Chicago, and Mrs. Ross resides in Lafayette. Wesley has been a boarder at the house of Mrs. Ross, and it is charged that he has used his influence with Mrs. Ross to induce her to make the deed to him, and that he has also used his influence with her to induce her to refuse to pay the mortgage. Wesley has been arrested on a charge of bribery, and is under bonds to appear at the April term of the Circuit Court to answer the charge. Wesley has also been arrested on a charge of perjury, and is under bonds to appear at the April term of the Circuit Court to answer the charge. Wesley has also been arrested on a charge of perjury, and is under bonds to appear at the April term of the Circuit Court to answer the charge. LONDON, Feb. 16.—[Table to New York Mail and Express.]—The outside impression in general here seems to be that Lord Randolph Churchill's resignation is beginning to be generally accepted, more because the influence is considerably felt to some extent here to what is considered as a step off the world and a man who clearly recognized as the coming Premier to plainly afraid of him, and because everybody recognizes the importance here of a better understanding between Germany and Austria. The fact that Mr. Gladstone is busily inserting planks of which the almost inevitable result would be war, or that he even would be willing to have a war party if he could prevent it, I do not believe deserves the least credence, and it certainly receives none among the best class of thinking men. That he is quite ready to fight, however, by all legislative and diplomatic means for the restoration of the temporal power of the Roman Church among the nations has received a fresh demonstration in the choice of Mgr. Sanzville del Vecchio, Papal Nuncio at Madrid, to succeed Cardinal Jacobini as Secretary of State to the Vatican. This is generally supposed to indicate the defeat of the Spanish party and the determination of the Pope to take direct for help to the cause of the Vatican. It was expected that Cardinal Ognonio, who, according to the previous rotation, would succeed Jacobini, would be the next Pope, would appoint Pope Leo's Franchise Secretary; but Cardinal Ognonio, unfortunately for his interest, so far as his appointment as successor is concerned, lately advocated a reconciliation between the Papacy and the Powers, and Pope Leo will not countenance any compromise, which would be virtually a partial admission of the church, with the Italian monarchy, which Leo looks upon as the temporal power of the Pope. The appointment of Vecchio probably will make Cardinal Schiaffino the Pope's successor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Special.]—A new turn is reported in railroad circles today that President Little of the New Jersey Central, during eight days before the date of the general election, in which case he would be succeeded by Austin Corbin. The latter and his friends are supposed to hold enough stock to control the May elections, and why it should be said it will be that gentleman is a mystery in Chicago. Corbin's brokers have had secured there of 5,000 shares of Jersey Central stock transferred to their name. This makes about 40,000 shares now said to have, and it is an open secret that with this holdings by parties friendly to Corbin sufficient to give them control of the road at the coming election. There seem to be precautions to maintain the reasonably solidarity, as a company has been organized under the title of the Jersey Central Improvement Company, the object of which is to provide money for the purchase of Jersey Central, by which the control of the road is to be secured. The company has a capital stock of $1,000,000, and $500,000 has been subscribed. The organization of the company was completed at a meeting held at the office of Drexel, Morgan & Co., in this city, at which the following directors were elected: Austin Corbin, Anthony J. Drexel, J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles Lanier, Robert Bonner, Frederick Gallatin, Jr., and Samuel Sloan. The officers elected were: President, Austin Corbin; Vice-President, Anthony J. Drexel; Secretary and Treasurer, Charles Lanier. The company will be empowered to purchase the stock of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and will be ready to do so as soon as the election is over.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Gen. Butler continued his cross-examination of Mr. Lodge in the gentleman's suit against him in the United States Circuit Court this morning. In reply to questions Lodge said that he did not recollect having talked a story which goes to show that his life is not all green, after all, as some pessimists have endeavored to maintain.

The green, who is a native of New York, bears the name of "A reckless eye, the lonely and the drinking kind, is a well-preserved person who has seen 72 summers come and go, but the world and the pleasures have treated her so kindly that she does not look a day more than 50. Instead of remaining single, as many ladies in her position would have done, she married a young man who was poor in pocket but rich in brains, and who had the good sense to appreciate her worth. Her husband, who was a native of Scotland, was a lawyer of ability, and by his skill and energy added largely to the fortune which he had married. Mrs. Green was a woman of strong character, and her husband was wise enough to recognize the fact. He consulted her in all his business affairs, and she was his trusted friend and counselor. Her husband died many years ago, and she has since managed her own affairs. She is a woman of great business ability, and has made many judicious investments. She owns a large amount of property in this city, and is also interested in a number of manufacturing enterprises in Connecticut. She is a member of the Dutch Reformed Church, and is a liberal contributor to its charities. She is a woman of strong will, and is not to be trifled with. The Plate a Star That Did Adjust but Plates Ad with One Side.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Union Iron Foundry, Wilmington, Del., [illegible] New York, one thousand miles to the inner bar. Plates pulled out of the Iron [illegible] this morning after a fog that had prevailed during the night. Plates that had been rubbed and rubbed, but others that were in a good condition. Two hundred and [illegible] were brought to New York, and the [illegible] of the Chief Engineer [illegible] Navy Yard.

JUST THE FIGURE.

A "nice figure of a man" is a monumental attraction to the fair sex. But it is ever so much in the dress after all. The only figure that has much to do with it is the figure paid for the clothes. The lowest possible price for the best possible goods is what a young man must look after, and here we have it—just the thing, and just the figure—a $50.00 cream or brown, wide wale, diagonal, silk-trimmed, shirt-sized Spring Overcoat for $25.00. Or, in Youths' sizes we can fit at once the person and the purse with a Spring Overcoat for $10 and upwards. THERE! These are the celebrated Rogers, Peet & Co. (New York) styles, and are guaranteed as we picture them. Don't be weighed, posing or proposing in the presence of your fair adorer without one of these fine garments to set off your "figger."
